

Happy October. It's been a few months since I sent our newsletter. We decided to take August "off" and then, you know how that goes; before you know it, September has passed, too. Suffice it to say that we enjoyed the summer, survived Hurricane Irene, and we're back at our desks reviewing all the new media titles that are coming out.

So now that the kids are back in school, you're probably thinking that this is the perfect time to revamp your media collection. Is that what you're thinking? Well, the publishers are thinking the same thing. We have plenty of new titles for your consideration this month. Many are included here. The rest can be found on our website.

For our processing customers, we now have the One-Time locking cases for Nintendo DS titles. If you are already getting the locking cases for wii, Xbox, and PlayStation titles, let us know and we'll add the DS titles to your profile.

I came across an interesting article in The New York Times about a little library in Central Falls, RI that the community simply refused to allow to close. It is a heartwarming story, and gives a glimpse of what a community can accomplish by working together. You can read about it here:
<http://www.nytimes.com/2011/10/01/us/central-falls-ri-library-fights-to-stay-open.html>.

I couldn't help but laugh when someone sent me this:

We're working on our Fall Supplement which should be ready to mail in a few weeks. In it, you'll find all the new titles that have been released recently. If you aren't on our mailing list, you can sign up here <http://crimsoninc.com/currentnews.php#signup> to ensure that you will receive, in print form, descriptions of all the latest titles.

Enjoy the October sunshine.

EA Sports MMA

© 2011 ELECTRONIC ARTS

You walk into the cage and the floor pulses with the energy of the arena. Sweat drips down your brow as you step out to the center. The bell rings and the match begins. While sizing up your opponent, you find the weakness you've been searching for. A hook comes from your left and you dodge at the last possible moment. You feel a breeze as his fist barely misses your nose, and you counter with a devastating right uppercut — striking him squarely in the jaw. His head jerks back in a violent motion, spraying sweat into the air before he falls backward to the mat. While you prepare to make your opponent submit, the referee calls it a knockout and the crowd erupts. This is the world of mixed martial arts — are you ready to fight? Rated T.
