

Spring has sprung. Happy April to all. My daughter was accepted to the college of her dreams so all is well with the world. Maybe that's not exactly true, but I'm going with it. One storm cloud on the horizon is the release of a new gaming platform, so many of you will be scouting out shelf space for Nintendo Switch titles.

Switch consoles went on sale in the US in early March. Nintendo predicts that this platform's popularity will be akin to the popular Wii system that was first released a decade ago. You'll see Switch games included among the new releases this month. Stock numbers begin with "SW." Many of these games are rated E and E10. Switch games are cartridges, similar to the DS and 3DS games. The publisher cases are similar in size to the PlayStation Vita cases, smaller than a Wii or PlayStation case and larger than the 3DS.

In addition to new titles, we have security cases, standing orders, opening day collections, free replacement cases, and custom processing. If you need samples or want to discuss ways to keep your videogame collection safe and circulating, please get in touch.

Baseball season will be underway during this first week of April. Can I give a shout out to my team? Go Yankees!
