

I'm flipping calendar pages faster than ever before, it seems. In just a handful of weeks, school will be out for the summer which means the kids (and their parents) will be in the library. Now is the perfect time to freshen up your gaming collection. The publishers have not let you down. Take a peek at what's coming available in May.

The newest platforms, PlayStation 4 VR and Switch, have continued to come at a regular clip. Unlike the PlayStation Vita which never really took off with libraries, the VR and Switch titles have become an instant hit. Who can predict this crazy business?

Our Spring 2017 printable/downloadable catalog supplement is available on our website. You will also receive a copy in each shipment. These quarterly supplements are a good way to review titles that have become available in the last few months. All these new titles are in stock, ready to process or ship in publisher cases.

At the end of the month we will switch to our summer Monday-through-Thursday work schedule. We've been doing this since 1966 –back when our warehouse didn't have air conditioning – and we're clinging to it as long as we can manage. If you leave a voice message or send an email, we will get back to you promptly.

Enjoy these beautiful days.
