May 2020

MAY DAY! MAY DAY! Nah, just kidding. Although it is the first of May and things feel topsy turvy, we are fine. We're still shipping and processing, albeit at a slower pace. Most importantly, we are happy-ish and healthy, and hope the same is true for you and yours.

Our warehouse continues to receive new titles. For those libraries that are open to receive orders, we appreciate your patience as everything is running a day or two behind. Many of your accounts have been put on hold as we await reopening state by state. Please get in touch when you are ready to resume operation.

Proforma invoices are available to those who want to be billed before the end of the fiscal year. Let us know if you would like to pursue that option.

Prices have been discounted — up to 90% — on our teaching materials. We feel you, teachers and homeschoolers! Libraries may also purchase and share with the community. Everything is available at www.crimsoninc.com.

This is a good time to pop over to our Facebook page where you will find loads of downloadable worksheets and activity pages. Some are fun puzzles. Others are about prepositions. Less fun. Regardless, feel free to share.

Like all of you, we are taking things slow and hoping to flatten the curve. It has been lovely to spend extra time in the garden and out with the dogs on the local trails, but we would prefer to be back to business as usual. We'll get there. In the meantime, let's all enjoy the sunshine.
