September 2020

AH, SEPTEMBER. I HARDLY KNOW HOW TO FEEL about anything anymore, let alone the arrival of September. It doesn't feel like we're inching toward autumn or entering back-to-school season or pushing on to the latter half of 2020. We are all healthy, though, and hope you are the same. That's something right there.

The September new release list is hefty and includes sports blockbuster titles like Pro Evo Soccer 2021, NBA 2K21 and Tony Hawk. It also includes Minecraft Dungeons Hero Edition but I'm throwing out a caveat on that. We're taking preorders but won't ship any format (Switch, PS4, Xbox One) until we are confident that they will work in circulation. Three different publishers on this one title — one for each format — with zero coordination. Our fingers are crossed but I won't believe it until I see it. Don't spend all your money, though, because the October list is even larger than September: Ben 10, Crash Bandicoot, FIFA 21, Nickelodeon Kart Racers, Power Rangers, Star Wars and more. They're all available for preorder on the website: crimsoninc.com.

PlayStation 5 and Xbox Series X, the new console platforms, will be available for sale in December along with a handful of next-gen games. The consoles will be backward compatible so the PS4 and Xbox One games will work just fine. I'll have more info to share on what's coming in the next newsletter.

Until then, enjoy the waning days of summer.
