November 2020

THERE'S NO DENYING IT. Summer 2020 is behind us. What lies ahead is a complete mystery so let's focus on what we know and control: leftover Halloween candy and video games. Ya?

Last month I warned you about the flood of new titles coming in November. I cannot tell a lie (except about how much leftover Halloween candy I have ingested) and so you will see all those new titles here and on our website. December is shaping up to be equally robust and those titles are also online at www.crimsoninc.com. We are adding more almost daily.

When you are ordering online, please make note of the new PS5 and XX titles. These are the new skus for PlayStation 5 and Xbox X games. Many titles work on both existing and new consoles. We're just starting to see games that are made specifically for the new consoles. Most libraries will buy some of each but, if you want to take it slow for now, just be sure to check the skus (and online artwork) to make sure you are ordering the platforms you prefer.

Let me be the first to wish you a Happy Socially-Distanced Thanksgiving. I've got a feeling we are all going to have leftover pie and that's something for which I will be thankful.
