March 2024 OUR 58TH YEAR

HAPPY SPRING-FORWARD MONTH. I'm ready to move the clock forward and enjoy beautiful daylight at the end of the work day. Although it's too soon to get excited about truly warm days, we're getting there.

I'm excited about heading to Columbus, OH for PLA. We'll be there from April 3-5. Will you? If so, please come visit us in booth 1637. We can talk about video games and where to get the best dinner in Columbus. (You tell me, please.) This is my favorite conference and I'm keen to see all of my library friends.

The March titles are many and varied. Lots of E titles. Lots of M titles. Lots of titles that are already moving to April.

Here's a little heads-up for those who are nice enough to read all the way through the newsletter: we're going to be raising our processing prices in the next few months. We haven't done this in years and years. The One-Time cases have more than doubled in cost during that time so we're going to have to make an adjustment. If you want to place a processing order with the current pricing, please get it to us during the month of March at the old pricing.

A SPACE FOR THE UNBOUND © 2024 PM Studios

High school is ending, and the world is ending with it. A Space for the Unbound is a slice-of-life adventure game with beautiful pixel art set in the late 90's rural Indonesia that tells a story about overcoming anxiety, depression, and the relationship between a boy and a girl with supernatural powers. Follow two high school sweethearts, Atma and Raya, on a journey of self-discovery at the end of their high school years. When a mysterious supernatural power is suddenly unleashed threatening their existence, they must explore and investigate their town to uncover hidden secrets, face the end of the world, and perhaps learn more about each other. Rated T.
